DIGITAL SCOUTING REPORT

Gill is an Award-winning NFL Professional whose purpose, intent and goal is to use the team building and leadership principles he gained from being a player, executive and coach in the NFL to develop executives on breaking down the racial, social and cultural barriers that exist within organizations to optimize business performance. While presenting his life memoirs from more than 40 years' experience, Gill will bring you inside his personal locker room, sharing in detail - how he navigated through his own "Pandemics" and "Social Injustices" during his career.

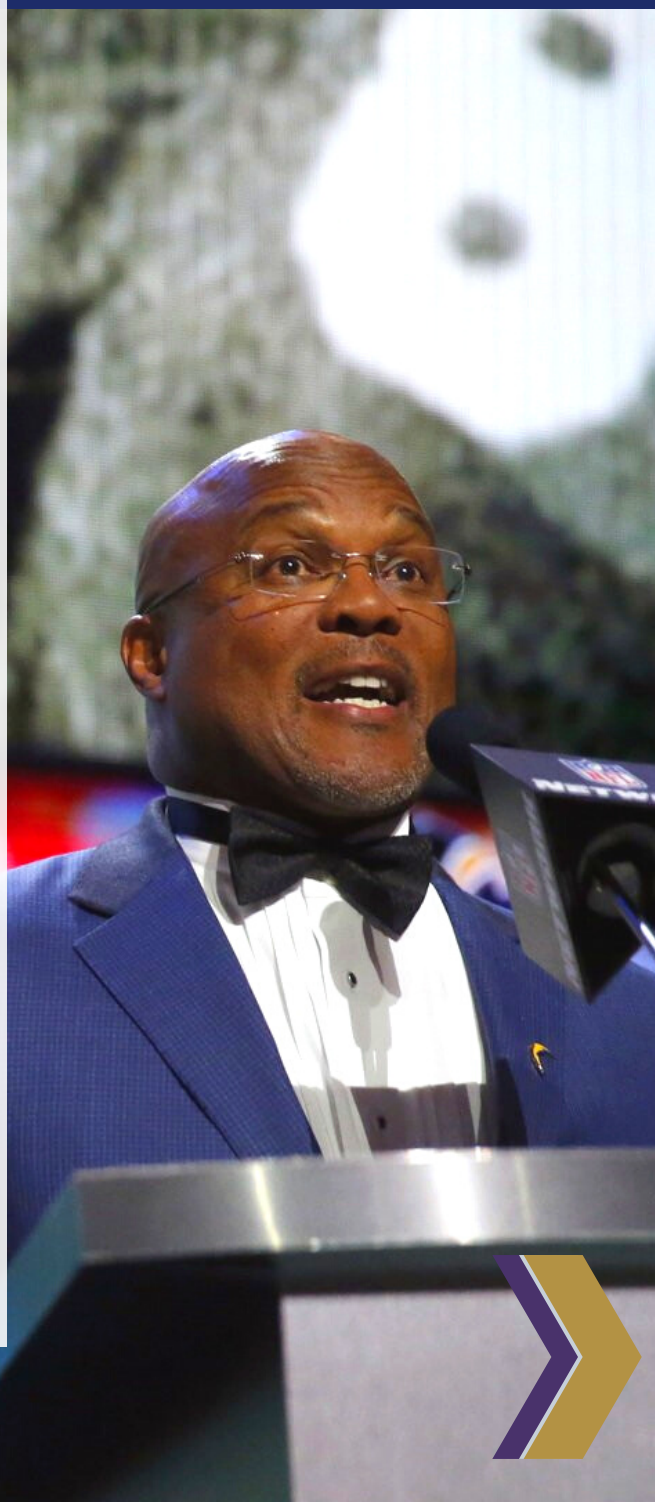

Gill's passion for development, competitive drive and communication skills enable him to break down the similarities and differences that exist between the NFL and Corporate America. He has developed numerous presentations based on his experiences to teach leaders how to overcome fear and uncertainty, and equip them with the tools and problem solving strategies needed to address common barriers and challenges faced in corporate environments today.
